A Journal of the Institute for Peace and Unification Studies
Seoul National University

Asian Journal of Peacebuilding (AJP) is a semiannual peer-reviewed journal launched by the Institute for Peace and Unification Studies (IPUS) at Seoul National University. It publishes original research on the topics of violence, conflict, and peacebuilding around the world. The aim of AJP is twofold: first, to promote innovative research on issues related to peacebuilding in Asia, a region where national divisions, transitions, and developments are intertwined with new forms of threat, violence, and destruction. Second, it aims to disseminate peace studies conducted both in the traditional disciplines of social sciences and humanities, as well as in interdisciplinary fields at the interface of religion, culture, ecology, and gender studies.

AJP welcomes papers written by scholars around the world, both within and outside the Asian region. Exemplary topics that AJP focuses on include but are not limited to: reconciliation in divided societies (or nations); migrants and refugees; weapons of mass destruction (WMD) developments; development and ecological destruction; historical and territorial disputes; peacemaking or mediation in intrastate conflicts; violence and transitional justice; anti- nuclear weapons (or anti-nuclear power) movements; gender issues at conflict zones; democratic transition and human rights; post-conflict institutionalization; and humanitarian assistance and protection.

The contents of the Journal are available or abstracted at EBSCO*host*™ Political Science, EBSCO*host*™ Academic Search Ultimate, ProQuest Political Science, ProQuest Social Science, Sociological Abstracts, Worldwide Political Science Abstracts, and International Political Science Abstracts. AJP is indexed in SCOPUS as well as the Korean Citation Index (KCI).

Submission Guidelines

All papers are subject to anonymous peer review. The reviewers are selected based on their expertise in the area of the submitted paper, and they will evaluate submitted papers on the basis of creativity, quality of scholarship, and contribution to the field of research. Authors are kindly requested to submit manuscripts in the following manner:

1. Basic Requirements

The manuscript is the author's own original work, and does not duplicate any other previously published work, including the author's own previously published work.

The manuscript has been submitted only to Asian Journal of Peacebuilding; it is not under consideration or peer review or accepted for publication or in press or published elsewhere.

A separate cover page should be sent with the author's short biography (3-4 sentences: affiliation, rank title, publications, email address, etc.) should be submitted.

Submission should be made via e-mail to: asianjournalofpeacebuilding@gmail.com

2. Manuscript Preparation

When submitting, the author should indicate the type of paper they are submitting among research article, research note, and field note.

A research article is a full research paper that contains a literature review, application of theoretical arguments, and sufficient data to substantiate author's claim (6,000 – 10,000 words).

A research note is a paper that seeks to establish a new conceptualization, provide new information, or introduce a new data analysis. Usually it is part of a bigger project which the author wishes to release in advance (5,000 – 7,000 words).

A field note is a paper that introduces new data and observations about the current situation based on specific field research. It does not include theoretical analysis nor a literature review (4,000 – 6,000 words).

All manuscripts should be submitted in Microsoft Word format.

All pages should be double-spaced, Times New Roman font point 12 (including references) and left justified.

Authors should pay particular attention to the accuracy and correct presentation of references and citations. In-text references should be cited by giving the author's name, year of publication and specific page numbers after a direct quotation (Smith 1999, 28-29). A list of works cited must be inserted at the end of the paper. References should be single-spaced but double-spaced between citations and arranged alphabetically by author's family name, and chronologically for each author. When referring more than once to the same author published the same year, identify each citation in the text as follows; (Smith 2012a; 2012b). When there are more than three authors, cite in the text as (Smith et al. 1999), but list all the authors in the reference list.

3. Publication charges

There is neither submission fee nor page charges for Asian Journal of Peacebuilding.

4. Copyright and authors' rights

It is a condition of publication that authors assign copyright or license the publication rights in their articles, including abstracts, to Institute for Peace and Unification Studies at Seoul National University. This enables Institute for Peace and Unification Studies to ensure full copyright protection and to disseminate the article, and of course the Journal, to the widest possible readership in print and electronic formats as appropriate. Authors are themselves responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyright material from other sources
