Greetings

Kim, Bumsoo |
IPUS Director

Seoul National University has been working on various levels, including research, education, and policy development to fulfill its social responsibilities as a national university. It also aims to realize the reunification of North and South Korea and world peace. The Institute for Peace and Unification Studies, which was established in 2006 as the "Unification Research Center" has served as the centerpiece of SNU's efforts and has evolved over the years. In particular, in 2011, the institute was reorganized and renamed to its current name in recognition of the importance of peace research.

Since the late 2000s, the institute has been conducting the Unification Perception Survey, the North Korean Unification Perception Survey, and the North Korea Social Change Survey, as well as measuring and publishing the Inter-Korean Integration Index every year. This is because we have determined that the most necessary task for research and policy formulation on North Korea and unification is the collection and accumulation of basic data. This data has been utilized in a number of academic studies, and has also contributed to the formation of public opinion in our society and the government's policy toward North Korea.

In addition, since 2010, we have been operating the Peace and Humanities Research Group with the support of the Humanities Korea (HK) project for 10 years to establish peace studies based on the Korean Peninsula issues. Since 2015, we have been conducting the Unification and Peace Foundation Building Project by organizing a collaborative network of researchers and research institutes who are interested in unification and peace issues. Through this project, we have accumulated knowledge related to North Korea, unification, peace, security, and human rights every year and have contributed to the cultivation of experts in related fields. In addition, we have established a global network and carried out various cooperative projects for the realization of sustainable peace at the global level.

Education related to North Korea, reunification, and peace are also an important responsibility of the institute. To this end, the institute operates the Unification Academy and the Peace Academy for university students and the general public. Since the institute moved to Siheung Campus in 2020, it has been operating the Citizen Peace School and the Leaders Academy in cooperation with Siheung City. The institute also runs the Unification Studies Forum and the Peace Studies

Forum to discuss important and timely topics related to unification and peace. In addition, the institute publishes the SCOPUS-registered English-language journal Asian Journal of Peacebuilding and the KCI-registered Korean-language journal Journal of Peace and Unification Studies twice a year, respectively.

Based on its accumulated experience and competencies on research related to North Korea, Northeast Asia, and the reunification of the two Koreas, the institute is expanding its horizons and scope of activities beyond the Korean Peninsula. The institute is strengthening exchanges and cooperation with overseas research institutions. Through these efforts, the institute aims to become a world-class research center not only in North Korean studies and unification studies, but also in the field of peace studies. We look forward to your encouragement and advice so that the institute can develop into a cradle of wisdom that contributes to the unification of the Korean Peninsula and global peace.

Thank you.

Goals

The Institute for Peace and Unification Studies (IPUS) at Seoul National University was established with the aim of recognizing 'unification' and 'peace' as the most important task of the Korean people and nation. At IPUS, we aim to contribute to society through academic research on the various issues that will need to be tackled in the process of realizing unification and peace.

Vision

Establishment of Interdisciplinary Unification Studies

We perform comprehensive, multidisciplinary studies in preparation for unification, using a systematic approach to the integration process between the North and South. We aim to construct an integrated model through an analytical survey of North Korean society and the variations within it.

Establishment of 'Korean Peace Studies'

By establishing Peace and Humanities Studies, we present a new paradigm of Peace Studies, propose peace within the context of unification, and seek the expansion of peace culture at the global level.

Strengthening Next-Generation Unification and Peace Research

We aim to develop various educational series to foster future generations of scholars who can establish a continuous virtuous cycle of research and education that can contribute back to society through the clear communication of research results.

Seoul National University Unification Research

We aim to organize a 'SNU Unification Research Network' by acting as a focal point for exchanges and cooperation among research institutes related to North Korea and unification within SNU.

Unification and Peace Studies, Constructing a Global Network

By establishing a bilateral exchange program between the 《SNU International Peace Network》 and the 《Northeast Asia Cooperation Network》, we will internationalize unification research and enrich a global network of Peace Studies on the Korean Peninsula.

The Institute for Peace and Unification Studies at Seoul National University "North Korean Sanctions Likely to Have Limited Impact on Food, Clothing, and Shelter... Covid-19 Likely to Have Huge Impact"

(KBS NEWS, 2022.04.25.)

[KBS NEWS = Kim, Soo-yeon, reporter]

A study reports that North Koreans' nutrition status have improved in the past 10 years since North Korean leader Kim Jong-un took power, and the tightening of sanctions against the country has not had a significant impact on their lives.

According to the Seoul National University Institute for Peace and Unification Studies's "10-year analysis of the North Korean defector survey project," the number of respondents who consumed only rice as a staple food rose from 44.4 percent in the early years of Kim Jong-un's rule (2011-2014) to 69.2 percent in the later years (2018-2020).

The researchers concluded that North Koreans' dietary habits have improved both quantitatively and qualitatively over the decade of Kim Jong-un's rule. In particular, the tightening of UN Security Council (UNSC) sanctions against North Korea following its 2017 nuclear test and test launch of an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), Hwasong-15, did not have a significant impact on the lives of North Koreans.

However, the COVID-19 pandemic, which has been ongoing since 2020, could impact the lives of North Koreans.

The Institute for Peace and Unification Studies at Seoul National University Hosts '2022 Unification Perception Survey Conference'

(News1, 2022.09.22.)

[SEOUL, = Kim, Soo-yeon, Intern Reporter]

The Seoul National University Institute for Peace and Unification Studies will hold an academic conference titled 'Peace at a Crossroads, Unification Revisited' on April 27 to present the results of the 2022 Unification Perception Survey.

The Unification Perception Survey is a survey on the evolution of people's views and perceptions about unification, North Korea, the North Korean policies, neighboring countries, and North Korean defectors, and has been conducted since 2007.

The conference on the survey is organized in three parts. In the first part, the main findings will be presented and discussed, and in the second part, in-depth analysis will be presented based on the survey data on the topics of ▲ the impact of the public perception of North Korea policies on the South Korean presidential election ▲ and inter-generational differences in perception of unification.

In the third part, a comprehensive discussion will be held with Prof. Kim Bumsoo (Deputy Director of the Institute for Peace and Unification Studies, Seoul National University), Dr. Kim Hyun-kyung (Adjunct Professor, University of North Korean Studies), and Dr. Park Jong-chul (Visiting Professor, Daejeon University).

⑥ [83rd Unification Studies Forum] Analysis of North Korea's New Year Address (Plenary Meeting) in 2022

- Date: January 4, 2022 (Tue) 14:00–17:00
- Venue: Online Video Conference (Zoom + Youtube)
- Topic: Analysis of North Korea's New Year Address (Plenary Meeting) for 2022

During the first presentation session, Suh, Bo-hyuk, a research fellow at the Korea Institute for National Unification, provided an outlook on security, inter-Korean relations, and North Korea's policy towards the United States in 2022, based on previous presentations. He evaluated that despite the severe challenges faced in 2021, North Korea emerged victorious and anticipated that in 2022, North Korea would focus on self-reliance and regional balanced growth. Suh analyzed that North Korea is unlikely to engage in denuclearization negotiations in the current situation and predicted a strong push for strengthening military capabilities through qualitative changes in national defense, given the intense external environment. Following this, Lim, Soo-ho, a research fellow at the Institute for National Security Strategy, delved into North Korea's domestic economy, foreign currency difficulties, COVID-19 prevention measures, and trade. He emphasized that stable food supply was crucial for long-term self-regeneration during an economic crisis. Lim interpreted that while North Korea would inevitably need to relax COVID-19 measures and resume trade for economic reasons, it prioritized emergency disease control measures, leading to a very gradual pace of border opening.

During the second panel discussion session, Professor Hong, Suk-hoon assessed that North Korea's focus was on strengthening regime durability through an emphasis on Kim Jong-un's leadership and the ideology of the Juche principle, particularly amidst the domestic challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic. Research fellow Jang, Cheol-wun highlighted that the North Korean government would continue to pursue enhanced mobility and firepower through the organization of mechanized and infantry divisions. He also mentioned the possibility of a large-scale military parade and long-range rocket launches in the coming year. Research fellow Hong, Jea-hwan predicted that North Korea would maintain a self-regeneration and state control-oriented approach in the economic sector. He emphasized the urgent need to address agricultural issues in the face of economic difficulties but pointed out the absence of specific plans, highlighting the lack of feasibility. Professor Philo [Byoung-ro] Kim considered the development of rural areas and the link between food production and stability, as well as stabilizing external and inter-Korean policies, as the primary objectives pursued by North Korea for overall national economic development. He also stressed the importance of preparing for potential instability factors following South Korea's presidential election.

◎ [84th Unification Studies Forum] Unification Consciousness among the MZ Generation.

- Date: January 9, 2022 (Wed) 14:00-16:00
- Venue: Online Video Conference (Zoom + Live Streaming on Youtube)
- Topic: Unification Consciousness among the MZ Generation

Professor Kim, Seong-hee analyzed that due to the lack of recent dialogue or cooperation with North Korea, the MZ generation's trust in North Korea has weakened, and the possibility of unification has become less likely. As a result, a growing number of the MZ generation have become indifferent to or do not see the need for unification. Professor Kim mentioned that this is not necessarily a unique characteristic of the MZ generation but rather stems from the lack of practical reasons to pursue unification. She predicted that if there is no progress in inter-Korean relations in the future, the MZ generation's preference for maintaining the current status quo or peaceful coexistence rather than unification will become more evident.

◎ [85th Unification Studies Forum] The Diaspora of North Korean Defectors—Settlement and Life in the UK, USA, Japan, and South Korea

- Date: April 6, 2022 (Wed) 14:00–15:30
- Venue: Online Video Conference (Zoom)
- Topic: The Diaspora of North Korean Defectors—Settlement and Life in the UK, USA, Japan, and South Korea

Professor Shin, Hae-ran conducted interviews with North Korean defectors residing in London's New Malden area and the Los Angeles region in the United States. The interviews focused on examining the changes in their capabilities throughout the immigration process, the relationship between North Korean defectors and Korean diaspora communities abroad, and the construction of the North Korean space within imagination and discourse. Researcher Lee, Hyun-uk discussed transnational linkages and the expansion of mobility, particularly among defectors of Korean descent residing in Japan. Instructor Kim, Hee-jung presented on the re-entry of North Korean defectors who had immigrated from Korea to Europe and Canada, their strategies for readjustment, and communication among family members. Professor Chun, Kyung-hyo discussed the representation of North Korean defectors in the media and the ways in which their image is portrayed through in-depth interviews with defectors conducted as part of the analysis.

- Topic: Expectations for the New Government's Foreign Affairs and Unification Policy

Former Vice Minister Kim Chun-sik reviewed the past and present of inter-Korean relations and discussed the future direction of North Korea policy that the South Korean government should pursue. In doing so, Kim emphasized the development of a comprehensive strategic alliance with the United States, a relationship with China based on mutual respect, economic security, preventing war by all means, complete denuclearization of North Korea, and normalization of inter-Korean relations. He particularly highlighted the significance of resolving the North Korean nuclear issue as a prerequisite throughout the forum. Furthermore, he suggested that a strong commitment to reunification as a national goal should be maintained, consensus on pursuing reunification should be established, and a unification policy based on national consensus should be pursued.

◎ [87th Unification Studies Forum] The Ukraine War and Tensions from North Korea: A Military-Technological Perspective

- Date: May 16, 2022 (Mon) 14:00-16:00
- Venue: Online Video Conference (Zoom)
- Topic: The Ukraine War and Tensions from North Korea: A Military-Technological Perspective

Professor Kim, Jong-dae began his presentation by mentioning Alvin Toffler's concept of the "Third Wave of War," which foreshadows the evolving nature of warfare shaped by newly emerging technologies in the information-knowledge society. He then introduced the assessments of Russia and the United States at the time of the Ukraine War's outbreak. He emphasized that the current propaganda efforts by Ukraine and the underperformance of the Russian military demonstrate a challenge to the conventional understanding that advancements in technology shape the nature of warfare, a notion introduced by Alvin Toffler. Furthermore, Professor Kim Jong-dae explained the factors overlooked in the analyses of American and Russian strategists, including the resistance and determination of Ukrainian government leaders and citizens, the delusions and strategic miscalculations of Russian leaders including Putin, and the failure of information due to illusions about technology. He underscored the need for broader considerations of the modern characteristics of warfare and the establishment of various parameters through new efforts.

◎ [89th Unification Studies Forum] North Korea's Journey Towards Becoming a Nuclear-armed Normal State

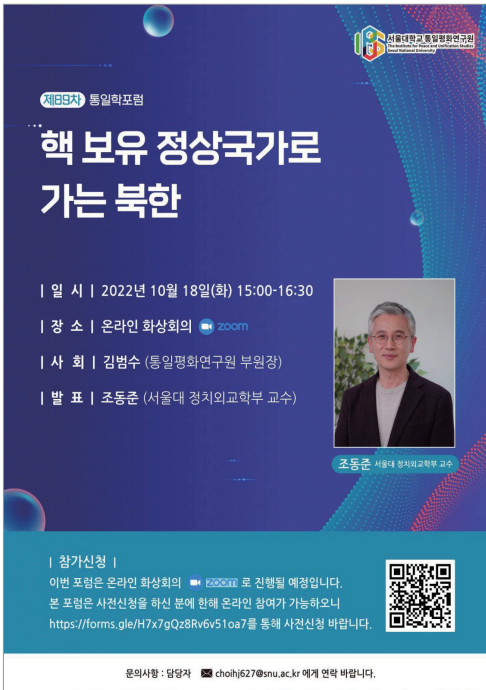

- Date: October 18, 2022 (Tue), 15:00-16:30
- Venue: Online Video Conference (ZOOM)
- Topic: North Korea's Journey Towards Becoming a Nuclear-armed Normal State

Professor Jo, Dong-joon delivered a lecture at this forum on the concept of strategic bombing, the emergence of nuclear weapons, the difference between strategic and tactical nuclear weapons, the myth and paradox of nuclear weapons, and the historical evolution of discourses related to nuclear weapons. He analyzed the evolution of North Korea's nuclear discourse since 1948 and summarized recent changes in North Korea's behaviors by comparing the concepts of "self-defensive nuclear-armed state" in 2013 and "nuclear deterrent policy" in 2022. Particularly, he emphasized the historical significance of studying nuclear strategies by highlighting the connection between North Korea's establishment of the Strategic Rocket Forces and its preemptive nuclear strike doctrine to the nuclear strategies of the Soviet Union in the 1950s and the United States in the 1960s.

Above all, Professor Jo emphasized that North Korea harbors two propositions in its mind: "Without nuclear weapons, we will die" and "Nuclear weapons are the guarantee of peace." He also pointed out the significant discrepancy in the interpretation of the concept of a "normal state" between North Korea and the international community. In 2022, he explained that North Korea's current concern lies in securing a first-strike capability through nuclear weapons and determining how to preserve it. Looking ahead, he envisioned that North Korea would aim to possess around 100 nuclear weapons, similar to the India-Pakistan model, and thus, any consideration of North Korea's policy should assume that it will not abandon its nuclear weapons for at least 30 to 50 years. He concluded by emphasizing that accurate judgment by citizens will be crucial in resolving the nuclear issue and urged listeners to heed the voices of experts.

◎ [90th Unification Studies Forum] Evolution of North Korea's Nuclear Doctrine and Challenges in the US-ROK Deterrence Strategy

- Date: November 15, 2022 (Tue) 15:00-16:30
- Venue: Online Video Conference (ZOOM)
- Topic: Evolution of North Korea's Nuclear Doctrine and Challenges in the US-ROK Deterrence Strategy

Kim Jung-sup, Vice President of the Sejong Institute, examined the current situation of South Korea, which spends 149.6 billion won on defense every day, and highlighted the specific risks posed by the North Korean nuclear threat. He raised concerns regarding the reliability of deterrence, issues of crisis instability (such as accidental nuclear use and unintended war), and the problem of arms competition. Analyzing the recent amendments to North Korea's nuclear capability legislation and its nuclear doctrine, he evaluated the inclusion of the "automatic nuclear strike clause" as a reflection of North Korea's concerns about preemptive strikes or disarmament. Despite North Korea's stated intention to pursue deterrence, he diagnosed the lowering threshold for nuclear use and the potential for crisis instability as threatening factors.

Furthermore, Vice President Kim Jung-sup invoked historical cases to emphasize the possibility of accidental nuclear war due to miscalculations and accidents. He discussed specific challenges in the "US-ROK deterrence strategy," including the need for substantive deepening and institutionalization of extended deterrence, issues of credibility in extended deterrence, controversies surrounding tactical nuclear redeployment, the potential and direction of South Korea's non-nuclear deterrence based on the three-axis system, and the adoption of preemptive strikes and decapitation operations. In conclusion, he called for the evolution of the US-ROK deterrence strategy in response to the heightened nuclear capabilities on the Korean Peninsula. He emphasized the need for a comprehensive review of the US-ROK deterrence posture in order to address the North Korean nuclear threat.

◎ [91st Unification Studies Forum] Invited Lecture by Minister Park, Jin of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs: Global Pivot State(GPS) and South Korea's Diplomacy – South Korea Contributing to Freedom, Peace and Prosperity

- Date: November 22, 2022 (Tue) 14:00–15:00
- Venue: Multimedia Lecture Building (Building 83), Room 505, Seoul National University.
- Topic: Global Pivot State(GPS) and South Korea's Diplomacy: South Korea Contributing to Freedom, Peace and Prosperity

Minister Park, Jin of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs highlighted South Korea's position as a cultural powerhouse, nuclear power, defense industry leader, and space and aviation power, and emphasized the importance of economic security and South Korea's vision as a Global Pivot State (GPS) contributing to freedom, peace, and prosperity. He particularly focused on the Indo-Pacific strategy, trilateral summit meetings between South Korea, the United States, and Japan, the development of the South Korea-U.S. alliance, improvement of South Korea-Japan relations, and the reconfiguration of South Korea-China relations to provide directions for South Korea's diplomacy.

Regarding the policy of "bold imagination" towards inter-Korean relations, Minister Park explained that the policy aimed to create an environment where North Korea must proceed with denuclearization from the initial stages, abandon nuclear development, and cease provocations through dialogue and diplomacy, making North Korea come to the dialogue table.

Regarding South Korea's response and role in the changing U.S.-China relations, Minister Park emphasized the need to manage the economic relationship with China in a stable manner, focusing on the South Korea-U.S. alliance, which shares common values, and to build close cooperation with India, a key country in the Indo-Pacific strategy from the perspective of the Global Pivot State (GPS).

- Date: March 22, 2022 (Tue) 14:00–16:00
- Venue: Online Video Conference (ZOOM)
- Topic: An Analysis of the Ukraine Situation and Future Prospects

At the one-month mark since the outbreak of the war between Russia and Ukraine, the 12th Peace Studies Forum welcomed Professor Shin Beom-Shik from the Department of Political Science and International Relations at Seoul National University to discuss the analysis and prospects of the Ukrainian war. Professor Shin examined the Ukrainian war from three perspectives: the war between pro-Russian separatists and the Ukrainian government within Ukraine, the war between Ukraine, which seeks NATO membership, and Russia, which opposes it, and the war between Russia and the Western liberal international order. He explained the implications of the Ukrainian war for Korean diplomacy alongside the outlook for the war.

- Date: April 21, 2022 (Thu) 14:00-16:00
- Venue: Online Video Conference (ZOOM)
- Topic: Quality Education and Development Education

The 13th Peace Studies Forum invited Professor Yu Seong-sang from the Department of Education at Seoul National University to discuss quality education and "development education." According to the UN-SDGs, improving access to quality education is essential for poverty eradication, gender equality, and other sustainable development objectives. Professor Yu emphasized the importance of educational exchange and cooperation for ensuring quality education and highlighted the need for active discussions on global education issues such as educational quality and equity in developing countries. He also explained that while "development" often presented as a noun, "education" is a verb that concretely realizes the values and levels encompassed by development, serving as a foundation, driving force, mediator, source of tension, friction, and conflict, in a comprehensive process.

Unification and Peace Foundation Building Project

In 2014, Seoul National University (SNU) launched the 'SNU Unification Research Network.' This is based on the <Basic Research Support Program for Unification and Peace Studies>, which was conducted between 2003 to 2012. The network aims to prepare for unification at the university level by linking research institutes in various fields within SNU, including humanities, sociology, law, agriculture, medicine, education, international politics, etc.

Academic Conference on Unification and Peace Foundation Building Project

Seoul National University has developed a comprehensive and systematic capability in addressing and contributing to the resolution of unification problem, which is one of the main concerns for Korean government and society.

The university has been promoting the "Unification Foundation Building Project" since 2015. In 2021, the project was renamed as the "Unification and Peace Foundation Building Project." We are striving to develop the project so that it can encompass various topics such as peace, human rights, and security. Unlike the past, the project has started to support research that are conducted for more than one year, enabling continuity of research.

The project will provide an environment for interdisciplinary research between humanities, social sciences, and engineering, cultivate experts, establish a global network, and expand the existing knowledge base.

● 《National University Network for Peace in Korean Peninsula》

IPUS is committed to fulfilling its social responsibility as a national university in preparation for the era of peace on the Korean Peninsula. In this regard, it has launched the "National University Network for Peace in Korean Peninsula" in collaboration with five national universities: Kangwon National University, Pusan National University, Seoul National University, Jeonbuk National University, and Chungnam National University. The National University Network for Peace in Korean Peninsula plans to continue its specific projects, including "Korean Peninsula Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)," "Joint Education Team for Unification and Peace," and "the Consortium for Establishment of a Network and Sustainable Development."

| Specific Projects

1. Joint Research on "Korean Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)"

- The joint research team conducted meetings with UN ESCAP, UNICEF Multiple Indicator Cluster Survey (MICS), and the UN ECOSOC-affiliated High Level Political Forum (HLPF) and experts.
- 2019: Developed templates for SDG 16 (Peace) and SDG 17 (Partnership).
- 2020: Conducted research on specific areas within SDGs, including health, education, and forestation.
- 2021: Focused on research related to poverty, gender, economic growth, and inequality within the SDGs. SDGs
- 2022: Analyzed and completed templates for all SDG goals, with a focus on poverty, water, infrastructure, cities, inequality, and climate/environment

2. Joint Research on "Politics of Conflict Resolution for Peacebuilding"

- Explored practical approaches to resolving various conflicts faced by Korean society, including ideological conflicts, distribution conflicts, cultural conflicts, trade disputes, and arms race, both domestically and internationally.

3. Joint Research on "Peace and Democracy"

- Examined the relationship between regime and peace at a macro level, focusing on the increasing social conflicts both internationally and domestically despite the global spread of democracy.

4. Establishment and Operation of Joint Education Teams for Unification and Peace

- Comprised of a diverse faculty of experts from various fields including political science, economics, geography, as well as engineering, civil engineering, education, science, nutrition, and implemented independent programs tailored to each university.

5. Operation of a Consortium for Network Establishment and Sustainable Development

- Oversees the overall network projects, designs and manages research and forum projects.

The Unification Academy, launched in 2007 by IPUS at Seoul National University and now celebrating its 21st year is an educational program held annually to raise social awareness and foster policy-oriented and scholarly interest and understanding of reunification and North Korea among university students. The 21st Unification Academy took place from April 5th to May 28th, spanning a total of 8 weeks. The program covered various topics, including the Ukrainian crisis and the Korean Peninsula (Lecture 1), Our Unification Policy and Inter-Korean Relations (Lecture 2), the Extent of Marketization in North Korea (Lecture 3), SDGs and North Korean development cooperation (Lecture 4), Unification and North Korea Through Data Analysis (Lecture 5), Inter-Korean Railway Connection and the Peace Economy of the Korean Peninsula (Lecture 6), Inter-Korean Scientific and Technological Cooperation and Energy Transition (Lecture 7), and the Path to Peace and Unification: War, Reconciliation, and Commemoration (Lecture 8). Renowned scholars and researchers from both domestic and international backgrounds delivered lectures on these diverse subjects. Despite the program being conducted online due to the COVID-19 pandemic, it received significant attention with a total of 96 participants, and 56 participants successfully completed the program.

In the 21st Unification Academy, participants in their 20s accounted for the largest portion, making up 42% of the total. They were followed by participants in their 30s, 40s, and 50s, comprising 20%, 10%, and 21%, respectively. In terms of occupations, graduate students accounted for 40% of the total participants, while undergraduate students represented 35%, indicating a significant proportion of students. Among the participants, the highest proportion based on their academic field was in the social sciences, constituting 38% of the total, humanities accounted for 19%, and the natural sciences and engineering accounted for 27%. The ratio of participants from Seoul National University and other institutions was 4:6. Among all the participants, 5% were affiliated with civic organizations, 7% were religious practitioners, and 7% were professionals in various fields. The majority of participants were found to be affiliated with domestic institutions.

● 《Peace Academy》

● 10th Peace Academy

The Peace Academy, hosted by the Institute for Peace and Unification Studies at Seoul National University, celebrated its 10th anniversary this year since its establishment in 2013. The Peace Academy is an educational program aimed at promoting social engagement and communication of research outcomes in the field of peace and humanities, targeting students, the general public, and practitioners in the field. From October 4th to November 19th, 2022, the 10th Peace Academy successfully concluded with an eight-week program consisting of various lectures delivered by renowned scholars and researchers, covering topics such as the US-China strategic competition, US policy in Asia, Russia-Ukraine relations, cross-strait relations, China's interpretation of the Korean War, and peace proposals for the Korean Peninsula.

Similar to previous years, this year's Peace Academy maintained a remote learning format while incorporating a short on-site camp program. The camp program included a one-night, two-day field trip to Tongilchon, a border village in Korea. The 7th and 8th lectures combined the field camp with activities such as meetings with local activists in Tongilchon, lectures on the peaceful use of the Korean DMZ and peace movements of border areas in Germany and war victims. These lectures provided in-depth discussions on how to transform border areas, which are historical and current sites representing the Korean War and division, into peaceful places.

Following a rigorous selection process, a total of 71 participants enrolled in this year's academy, and 38 of them successfully completed the program. The participants consisted of undergraduate and graduate students as well as members of the general public. Students accounted for more than half of the participants, with undergraduates comprising 26% and graduate students comprising 29%. In terms of academic backgrounds, social sciences represented the largest portion at 68%, followed by humanities at 13%, natural sciences at 10%, and peace and unification studies at 8%. Among the general public participants, 19% were professionals, 6% were affiliated with civic organizations, 3% were affiliated with religious organizations, and 17% fell into the "other" category. In terms of age groups, participants in their 20s accounted for the largest portion at 42%, followed by those in their 50s at 26%, and those in their 30s and 40s at 16.7% and 15.3%, respectively.

《Siheung Academy》

In line with the relocation of the IPUS to the Siheung Campus in 2020, the IPUS launched the "Siheung Academy" in collaboration with Siheung City. The Siheung Academy aims to utilize the accumulated educational experience and network of the IPUS to: 1) contribute to the development of a sound and future-oriented peace sensitivityd mindset and unification consciousness among the citizens of Siheung, 2) establish a model where knowledge and daily life, research and practice, are in a virtuous cycle through direct communication between universities and citizens of the local government, and 3) realize the synergy between universities' social services and collaboration with local governments. The Siheung Academy consists of the "Siheung Citizens Peace School" (1st semester) targeting general citizens and the "Siheung Leaders Academy" (2nd semester) targeting local leaders.

《2nd Siheung Citizens' Peace School》 Exploring the Path of Peace Through Art

In May-June 2022, under the theme "Exploring the Path of Peace through Art," the 2nd Siheung Citizens' Peace School aimed to engage citizens in a meaningful exploration of peace culture. Art, in its various forms such as novels, films, popular songs, and paintings, is the most intuitive and dramatic medium where the values, attitudes, and actions of peace culture, which can be seen as a collective expression of society, are embodied. As art exists in every aspect of our daily lives, it becomes the most effective means of connecting peace culture with the lives of citizens. The 2nd Siheung Citizens' Peace School provided a series of lectures for seven weeks, featuring experts from various fields, who covered a wide range of artistic genres, including literature, film, visual arts, music, and documentaries. Through the active participation of Siheung citizens, the school aimed to foster a close connection between peace culture and their everyday lives.

● International Academic Journal: Asian Journal of Peacebuilding (AJP)

IPUS launched Asia's first international journal specializing in Peace Studies, the AJP, in May 2013. The AJP, which is issued twice a year in May and November, communicates the academic possibilities of 'Peace Studies from the Korean Peninsula' sent in by researchers with Asia and the world, while collecting meaningful results from world peace studies.

The AJP is undoubtedly the first specialized international academic journal on Peace Studies in Asia. The AJP has been faithfully fulfilling its role in improving the quality of research and academic activities of the IPUS based on incorporating significant achievements in global peace studies, while simultaneously disseminating the awareness of Peace Humanities Studies globally. The AJP has invited Nobel Peace Prize laureate José Ramos-Horta, former President of Timor-Leste, and former Chairmen of peace-related international associations such as ISA and IPRA (Harvey Starr, Ethel Solingen and T.V. Paul) as editorial board members to encourage the submission of outstanding papers, demonstrating its ability to attract exceptional papers, including those by Nobel Peace Prize laureate Aung San Suu Kyi and former President of Timor-Leste, José Ramos-Horta. The AJP has been recognized as international and professional not only in the screening process but also in the production process of accepted papers. Currently, AJP is indexed in KCI (Korean Citation Index) and SCOPUS.

◉ 《Korean Academic Journal: Journal of Peace and Unification Studies》

IPUS has been publishing the Korean academic journal ‘The Journal of Peace and Unification Studies’ twice a year (June and December) since June 2009. The ‘Journal of Peace and Unification Studies’ aims to deepen and diversify research on the keywords “peace” and “unification,” which are essential for shaping the future vision of the Korean Peninsula, and to promote scholarly communication. To achieve these goals, the ‘Journal of Peace and Unification Studies’ rigorously selects and publishes pure academic papers that cover the following areas: 1) research on the regional situation surrounding the Korean Peninsula and various aspects of North Korea, theories and methodologies of unification studies, and 2) key themes of peace, including the overall violence and dispeace structures surrounding humanity, nature, and society, as well as environmental issues, ecology, and various crises and conflicts caused by globalization. In particular, based on the multidisciplinary nature of Unification Studies and Peace Studies, the ‘Journal of Peace and Unification Studies’ aspires to position itself as a comprehensive academic journal that encompasses the fields of humanities and social sciences. It also aims to cover practical and policy-oriented approaches to unification and peace by actively engaging in discussions on civilizational values and their feasibility. The ‘Journal of Peace and Unification Studies’ is currently indexed in the KCI (Korea Citation Index).

[What is Peace Studies?: Genealogy and Issue]

Kim, Bumsoo and others (2022.12)

Peace studies is a practical and multidisciplinary discipline that seeks to realize peace by diagnosing the causes and providing solutions to various problems that humanity is facing. Problems include war, violence, economic inequality, poverty, disease, climate change, structural oppression, discrimination, and exploitation. Peace studies has a long history and encompasses a wide range of fields. This book examines how peace studies has developed since the modern era in historical and theoretical contexts. It also examines major issues such as maritime disputes, climate crisis, and international development.

IPUS HORIZON

IPUS HORIZON aims to provide a platform for examining research conducted in various disciplines from the perspective of peace studies and engaging in in-depth discussions on peace-related issues, not only on the Korean Peninsula but also on a global scale. It seeks to explore knowledge on peace in the realms of human beings, society, nations, and the environment, and to contribute to the discourse on building and practicing peace based on reflections on the conflicts and crises humanity faces today.

◎ [IPUS–Pusan National University Joint Conference] Generation MZ's Perception of Unification

- Date: February 2, 2023 (Thu) 14:00 – 3 (Fri) 12:00
- Location: Pusan National University Conference Room
- Topic: Generation MZ's Perception of Unification

The Institute for Peace and Unification Studies organized a joint conference with Pusan National University's Institute for Korean Unification on the topic: Generation MZ's Perception of Unification. The conference focused on Generation MZ's "conservative" perceptions of North Korea, their perceptions of the North Korean nuclear issue and of neighboring countries. The conference analyzed generational characteristics of generation MZ based on the Unification Perception Survey from the IPUS, which has been conducted since 2007. In addition, research that compares the characteristics of generation MZ with those of generation MZ in North Korea was presented.

[Project 2] Data Archiving

The Institute for Peace and Unification Studies conducts various studies to contribute to the peace and unification of the Korean Peninsula. In particular, the Unification Perception Survey, the North Korean Unification Perception Survey, the North Korea Social Change Survey, and the Inter-Korean Integration Index project have been accumulating quantitative data related to unification. The data from the four research projects have been accumulated for more than 10 years. The institute has systematically organized and visualized important data so that they can be actively used in academic and policy research.

● [Project 3] How to Establish Governance for Medical–Bio Cooperation between North and South Korea to Respond to 'New Security' Threats (Professor Kim Bumsoo, Dept. of Liberal Studies, Seoul National University)

As evidenced by the recent Covid-19 outbreak, bio-threats such as viruses and bacteria are emerging. These threats cannot be effectively countered by traditional security paradigm that focuses on military. It is crucial to go beyond the efforts of individual nations and build a system of cooperation at the global level. This study examines how to establish the governance of medical-bio cooperation between North and South Korea to effectively respond to new security threats and suggests practical policies.

● [Project 4] Conflict Resolution and Social Consensus in Peace and Reunification Policies – Focusing on the Role of Local Governments (Professor Lee Jung-Chul, Dept. of Political Science and Int. Relations, Seoul National University)

In order for the societal debate on peace and reunification policies to move forward, it is necessary to engage a variety of actors, including the national assembly, academia, private sectors, religious organizations, and local governments. This study focuses on the role of local governments in reducing “South–South conflict” and building public consensus on North Korea policy. It examines ways to systematize local governments' unification cooperation and lay the groundwork for the government to establish a consensus on unification policy.

● [Project 5] North Korea's Atmosphere from the Sky: Air Pollution and Greenhouse Gas Status (Professor Jeong Su-Jong, Dept. of Environmental Planning, Seoul National University)

The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) is proposing carbon emission reduction and carbon neutrality targets. South Korea has also proposed the 2030 National Greenhouse Gas Reduction Target (NDC) to reduce carbon emissions. In this context, climate change is gaining attention as an agenda for cooperation between North and South Korea. This study aims to build a foundation for a cooperative system to address climate change. It aims to quantitatively identify the status of air pollutant emissions in North Korea using satellites and establish a sustainable monitoring system.
